L. H. Tolfree has leased the Bank Hotel at Flagstaff and takes possession on the first, when Tom Coalter's lease expires. While the boys will regret to lose the genial Tom, they will be glad to have so competent and pleasant a proprietor as Lyman Tolfree. Frank M. Livermore general manager of the Arizona Cattle Co. at Flagstaff, came in on last night's train and met with a hearty welcome from many old acquaintances. In the days of long ago, when San Bernardino was the nearest railway point to Prescott, Frank could be seen handling the ribbons on Jim Stewart's stage line, and was rated as one of the cleverest "roadsters" on or off the seat. Mr. Livermore finds the scenes of his early life greatly changed, but enough Hasayampa faces are left to show that he is still "in it."—Journal Miner.

Fully two-thirds of the men in this Order of Preachers are converts to the Catholic religion; consequently they understand exactly how to please and entertain mixed audiences.

Struck by a Train.

Tuesday afternoon a west bound freight train killed a Mexican about three miles this side of Bellemont. Engineer Davis, who was running the locomotive, says he noticed the man walking on the ends of the ties when about half a mile away. When about three train lengths away he blew the whistle and supposed the man would get out of the way, but instead he stepped between the rails. The engineer again sounded the whistle but as the man still kept between the rails and the train was close to him the brakes were applied but too late to prevent the engine from striking the track walker. The victim was thrown to the ground with such force as to produce instant death. The body was put into the caboose and taken to Bellemont. The train crew were sent back to the place with the body, and arrived at 8 o'clock p. m. Justice of the Peace Morse summoned a coroners jury and an inquest was held. The dead man was a Mexican and known to but few of his countrymen. He was known to them as Oan Diego. The jury returned a verdict of accidental death and exonerated the train crew from all blame in the matter.

Flagstaff Lodge, No. 13, A. O. U. W. gave a royal welcome to A. E. Pierce, Grand Master Workman of the jurisdiction of Colorado, New Mexico and Arizona, on last Saturday night. Over one hundred members of the order, and their friends, assembled in the hall to greet their distinguished guest. Dr. D. J. Brannen, D. D. G. M. in a few well chosen words, introduced Mr. Pierce, who addressed the assembly on the work of the A. O. U. W. Short addresses were made by Rev. Wilson and E. S. Clark. After the speeches the assembly adjourned to the banquet hall where an elegant collation was partaken of. Grand Master Pierce and a number of the members of Flagstaff Lodge, visited the cliff dwellings Friday. Mr. Pierce left in the afternoon for Yuma and will visit the lodges in the territory.

Mrs. F. W. Sisson gave an interesting talk on palmistry at the Presbyterian church Thursday night. The church was crowded and the lecture was highly appreciated by those in attendance.

Rejoicing Sheepmen.

T. A. Riordan and F. W. Sisson of the Arizona Lumber company of Flagstaff, the gate city to the Grand Canyon, are in the city for a brief visit. Mr. Sisson says the sheepmen of that pastoral part of Arizona are in high feather over McKinley's election, the reviving effect of which has been already markedly shown in the steadily advancing price of sheep. The price on bleaters for mutton has increased 50 cents per head since the election, sheepraisers now receiving $2.50 apiece for the animals, while wool has gone up a cent a pound.

T. J. Eaman, the Kansas City dealer, who buys extensively in northern Arizona, writes the most cheering news from there in regard to the advance in prices and the markets in the east.—Republican.

The town of Flagstaff has an $2,000 fire apparatus, which, for the past month has been standing in the street, for the reason that there is no place to put it. The Town Council should at once find some place to put the fire engine. As it is now the engine is out of order and should a fire occur it could not be used, and the town would be at the mercy of the flames. There should be no delay in this matter.

The Grand View hotel in Jerome was sold Monday to E. E. Bartlett of Prescott, for $10,000.

J. A. Fleming, who has been in the east for the past couple of weeks purchasing machinery for the Black Warrior group of copper mines at Globe, is expected to return in a few days when he will go on to Globe and place that property in active operation.—Phoenix Herald.
